GYPSY SMITH TABERNACLE

Large Structure Will Be Dedicated Next Saturday Night.

The tabernacle at 16th and V streets northwest, in which Gypsy Smith, jr., the evangelist, will conduct a revival from January 28 to February 28, will be dedicated Saturday night, when the evangelist will conduct the exercises.

His program will include an address informing the audience of his aims.

Gypsy Smith, will be presented by the Rev. John Carpenter Palmer, chairman of the executive committee, arranging for the revival. The chorus of 400 trained voices will be turned over to Prof. Forest Cole, Gypsy Smith's choir leader. A rehearsal of the hymns for the dedicatory exercises will be held Thursday night.

Ministers in the Presbyterian churches of Washington yesterday, and also of other churches called attention to the revival campaign, and urged every one to attend as often as possible.

An unusual amount of enthusiasm and interest is being displayed by Washingtonians in the revival. The several committees in charge of arrangements have virtually completed their preparations.

Evangelist Smith has just finished a series of meetings at the State College in Pennsylvania. Today he leaves there for New York for a few days' rest. He will arrive in Washington Saturday. Prof. Cole, the choir leader, will arrive in the capital city today.

Many Alexandrians will attend the services.

One night during the revival will be known as "Alexandria Night." At that time the Rev. Dr. John Lee Allison, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Alexandria, is expected to bring to the tabernacle, practically all the members of his congregation, and a great many other Virginians.

Wilson Addresses Senate.

President Wilson addressed the Senate on the subject of foreign relations this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

This was the first time President Wilson has ever addressed the Senate. He has frequently delivered his annual and special messages to Congress at a joint session in the House chamber.

VIRGINIA DEBT LOOMS UP

Most Perplexing Subject Again Before Legislature of West Virginia —Hope of Compromise.

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 22 — Looming up as the most important subject awaiting the consideration of the Legislature, the Virginia debt question is giving the State's lawmaking body serious concern. The special message of Governor Hatfield dealing with the subject submitted to the Senate last Thursday and the House Friday, has served to bring the question to the front, where it probably will remain until acted upon in some way.

So far there has been no crystallization of sentiment among the solons for any one plan. Widely divergent views are entertained by the members of the Legislature as to the proper course to pursue and it probably will require some time to evolve a plan of meeting the question.

Repudiation, outright repudiation, finds favor among only a comparatively few in the lawmaking body, although it is understood that some who advocate such a course of action are preparing to circulate a petition pledging the signers to support such a program. It is doubtful, however, if such a movement would gain much headway, because even those who are inclined to favor repudiation will be slow to commit themselves to such a course.

The belief is growing in the Legislature that perhaps a compromise can be effected between this State and the certificate holders, especially when the latter realize that the people of the State are very averse to paying a sum two-thirds of which represents interest on a debt only determined after 50 years of doubt. If the judgment could be compromised at $5,000,000 or thereabouts, it is regarded as possible that the Legislature might be willing to provide for liquidation on that basis.

As long as the opinion prevails, as it does that West Virginia has an equitable part in Virginia's unlimited assets, the claims for which West Virginia has been unable to prosecute, as Governor Hatfield points out, the Legislature will not be inclined to sanction a settlement of the judgment on its present basis without further effort as suggested by Governor Hatfield; that is, by authorizing the counsel for this State to ask for a rehearing before the Supreme Court on the question of interest and also to ask for a restraining order against Virginia until such a time as West Virginia might be authorized to sue in the Court of Claims for her proportion of the funds derived from the sale of lands in the northwest territory ceded by Virginia to the Federal Government, or without an effort toward making a compromise.

The Governor, in his message, unequivocally opposed repudiation, taking the position that the State cannot afford to do that. In that position, of course, he differs with Judge Jacobs and Judge Brown, of Wood, who hold to the view that the Supreme Court cannot force payment.

Swiss Ordered Home.

Swiss reservists in this country were called to the colors by the Swiss minister, Dr. Paul Ritter, acting upon instructions from his home government. Minister Ritter sent out instructions to all Swiss consuls, ordering home all reservists who have been on conditional leave. The mobilization is ordered for January 24, and applies to the reservists of the second, fourth and fifth army divisions of the army of Switzerland. Minister Ritter took pains to say that the instructions sent by his government contained no intimation that a hostile move against either of the belligerents was anticipated. He explained that the reservists were called home chiefly for the purpose of relieving two army corps now mobilized. The minister would not discuss the reports of uneasiness felt by the Swiss people because of massing of large German forces on the Swiss frontier.

THE BOY SCOUTS

Start a Week's Campaign for Funds with Which to Carry on Their Work During the Year.

The Boy Scouts of the city will begin a week's campaign tomorrow for the purpose of raising funds with which to carry on their work. The expense incident to the training of one Boy Scout for one week is six cents. The money has to be secured through popular subscription and it is desired to help one hundred boys this year. Will you pay for the training of one Boy Scout for one year? Or, perhaps you will pay for a troop?

The Boy Scout Movement

A Boy Scout is surrounded with study, manly influences during his grammer school years which help to prepare him for the battle of life. These influences take hold where the school leaves off—the hours when a boy runs wild. It provides an influence and offers a program which keeps the boy on the right, following his natural, boy-like impulses and graduating him into a manly man. The twelve points of the Boy Scout aw are: 1. A Scout's honor is to be trusted. 2. A Scout is loyal. 3. A Scout is helpful. 4. A Scout is friendly. 5. A Scout is courteous. 6. A Scout is kind. 7. A Scout is obedient. 8. A Scout is cheerful. 9. A Scout is thrifty. 10. A Scout is brave. 11. A Scout is clean. 12. A Scout is reverent.

Let everyone assist in this campaign and thus help in making good and useful citizens of our boys.

A committee has been appointed by the Chamber of Commerce to draft resolutions upon the death of Mr. J. W. Hammond.

Lorenzo Wolford, president of the Old Dominion Glass Company of this city, was given a most agreeable surprise as well as a fine testimonial by the employees of the company yesterday. It is the custom of Mr. Wolford to inspect the glass plant on Sundays, and in accordance therewith he visited the works yesterday morning as usual. Upon arriving there he was met by a committee of the men and escorted to one of the large buildings where the workmen had assembled to greet him. As he entered, all the men rose and gave him a hearty handshake and on behalf of his employees, Mr. J. U. Schwarzmann, general superintendent, presented him with a handsome Elks' pin set with diamonds, and in a few words referred to the pleasant feeling which has always existed between them and the company for the past 25 years. Mr. Wolford is looked upon by the men as the father of the glass business in the south, having built the first glass factory south of the Mason and Dixon line. Many of them have been with him in the business ever since they were boys. When Mr. Wolford rose to respond it is said that he was so much affected that tears could be seen in his eyes. Breaking in upon him, the men shouted as with one voice, "Long may you live, to look after us in the future as you have in the past." Mr. Wolford then proceeded and gave a most affecting and interesting talk, going back over the fifty years in which he has been engaged in the business. Mr. Wolford was an orphan only seven years old when he began working in the business and was compelled to make his own way in the world. He secured his education by attending a night school. For the past 15 years he has occupied the position of president of the company and is greatly respected by all in his employ. At the close of Mr. Wolford's address refreshments were served and a very pleasant time was enjoyed by all.

REQUISITION ISSUED.

J. Harry Bean Wanted in Alexandria County on Charge of Grand Larceny.

A requisition was issued yesterday by the Governor's office on the chief justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia for J. Harry Bean, wanted in Alexandria county for grand larceny.

It is charged that an Aexandria County woman handed Bean $1,900 worth of jewelry with instructions to deposit it for her in a safe. Instead of doing this, it is charged, Bean proceeded to pawn the jewelry, appropriating the proceeds. Sheriff H. B. Fields, of Alexandria county, left with the papers to bring back the prisoner.

Minstrel Show.

Final preparations have been made for the minstrel performance to be given by Seminole Tribe tomorrow and Wednesday evenings of this week in the Opera House, and all that now remains to be done is for the orchestra to play the overture and the curtain to rise. The entire company was present at the rehearsal held Saturday evening and the melodies sung by the soloists and chorus rang out in fine harmony. The end men gave an exhibition of how to make people laugh and grow fat and this is a hint to those who have tickets and dont believe in laughter to stay home, for those end men are certainly going to make a big hit on the nights of the performance.

The big chorus of 75 voices has certainly been rounded into shape beautifully and Prof. Clarence W. Sutton deserves a great deal of credit for the able manner in which he has trained and developed the voices of all. The scene in the opening act is handsomely arranged. The setting will be encircled by 75 black face singers, dancers and jokers. The costumes worn by the entire company together with the scenic effects, make a beautiful picture in the first part, which will last an hour and a half and the second part will last about another hour. From the manner in which seats are being disposed of a crowded house will greet these players in their first performance before the public of Alexandria. Seats are on sale at Warfield's drug store or at the box office in the opera house on the evenings of the show.

Nearly all of the members of the Alexandria Light Infantry who returned home from the Texas border Wednesday resumed work at their former places of employment this morning.

Mrs. Sarah Lovejoy Padgett, wife of Joseph Padgett, for many years a resident of Alexandria, died in Washington at midnight Saturday, at the home of her son-in-law, Chas. W. Tucker, 721 Sixteenth street, S. E. She had been ill only about six weeks, death resulting from advanced age. The funeral will occur Wednesday morning at 9:30 in St. Mary's Catholic Church in this city and the interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery here. Carriages will be at Demaine & Son's at 9 o'clock to take those attending. The deceased is survived by her husband and the following children: Mrs. Charles W. Tucker, Washington; Mrs. Joseph Puetz, Milwaukee, Wis.; Edgar Hammond, Joseph, Ernest I., and Carlton A. Padgett, of this city.

The teachers of the city schools gave a delightful reception Saturday night in Lee Camp Hall in honor of Captain Conrad Johnson and Mrs. Johnson. The affair was in the nature of a welcome home to Captain Johnson, who returned on Wednesday last from seven months' service with his company, the Alexandria Light Infantry, on the Texas border. The address of welcome was made by Captain W. H. Sweeney, superintendent of schools, which was responded to by Captain Johnson. The president of the association, C. A. Burrus, also gave a short address. The hall was very tastefully decorated and a buffet luncheon was served. The following were in the receiving line: Miss Mary F. Grigg, chairman reception committee; Stanley G. Blanton; acting principal of the High School; Miss Angela Nevitt, principal of Washington School; Miss Fannie Smith, principal of Lee School; Miss Mary Monroe, school nurse, and Dr. Llewellyn Powell, school physician.

COLD WAVE IN TRANSIT.

Weather Forecaster Predicts Most Frigid Weather of Winter Will Prevail This Week.

The heavens became overcast Saturday night, and yesterday morning there were indications of snow. Flakes began to sail lazily through the air between ten and eleven o'clock, and by the time the churches were dismissed it was flying in earnest with the ground covered. The temperature, however, was mild, and most of it melted. Later in the day rain partly obliterated the snow, and it disappeared entirely during the night.

Colder conditions are forecasted for tonight. The mercury is going to take a drop downward, and for the coming three or four days it will be colder than any weather this year.

The cold snap is said to be heading in this direction from Alberta, Canada. It is coming east at a rapid pace. The mercury will be below freezing, however.

STRIKE INSIDE LABOR RANKS.

Clerical Employees of Federation of Labor Threaten Walkout.

Bookkeepers, stenographers and typewriters employed by the American Federation of Labor threaten a strike unless they are granted increased pay, a reduction in hours of labor and a change in the manner of adjusting differences between employers and employees. The demands of the Union will be laid before the executive council of the Federation of Labor, in session here this week. The matter will also be brought to the attention of President Gompers. If he is unable to accede to their demands, then a strike vote will be taken. If Gompers approves of the strike, the curious spectacle will be presented of the Federation paying out money for conducting a strike against itself.

Practically all the demands of the union have been refused.

The proposed agreement submitted by the union asked for four weeks' vacation. The Federation agreed to two weeks' holiday, which has been given in the past.

BAR ASSOCIATION MEETS

Elects Officers, Enjoy Fine Banquet and Listen to Some Good Speeches on Saturday Evening.

One of the members intimated that it was "knocker's" night at the Bar Association banquet of the Sixteenth Judicial Circuit, held at the Hotel Rammel Saturday evening, and neither gray hairs nor dignity could purchase amnesty from the shafts of wit which darted around the banquet table, presided over by Leo P. Harlow, the perennial toastmaster of the affair. The only safe place was somewhere else, and a goodly number of members absented themselves, although someone was unkind enough to suggest that the absentees were afraid that since November 1st, the irrigation facilities for banquets in Alexandria were not what they used to be. While the attendance was not as large as at certain times in the past, nevertheless, someone was heard to murmur that they made up in appetites what they lacked in numbers.

The retiring president, Col. Robert A. Hutchison, delivered an earnest and forceful address, recommending wider powers for the grievance committee of the association for the purpose of preventing unprofessional and improper conduct by lawyers not members of the Association in order that the public might be protected from irregular practices.

Following the president's address, Judge Gloth, the newly elected president, introduced Leo. P. Harlow as toastmaster, who proceeded to call upon the different members indiscriminately to respond to toasts of a fantastic character. Among those responding were Judge C. E. Nicol, Gardner L. Boothe, Frank Lion, Walter U. Varney, R. C. L. Moncure, James R. Caton, Harry B. Caton, H. Thornton Davies, and George H. Rucker. James F. Peyton, the dean of the Alexandria reporters present, was also called upon but the venerable and canny James had quietly vanished.

R. B. Washington, the treasurer of the Association, was highly commended for his success in collecting the dues of the membership and in recognition of his services in this connection, was voted an extra allowance of the fruit punch.

The newly elected executive committee was given power to select the places for the next annual banquet, it being suggested that the prevailing drought in Virginia might be avoided by holding the banquet in Washington. Looking at it from the outside we venture the hope that the executive committee will decide to continue holding the banquets in Alexandria, as we would dislike to be deprived of all of our lawyers, even for one evening, as they are in one particular much like the fair sex, in that while we cannot sometimes get along with them, it would be quite inconvenient to get along without them.

C. Keith Carlin, French C. Simpson and Wm. P. Woolls, jr., were elected members of the Association.

Mr. Frank Lion extended an invitation to meet at his home "Lyonhurst" at a date to be fixed by the president, which invitation was unanimously and vociferously accepted. It was likewise strongly intimated to Judge Gloth, the incoming president, that a similar invitation from him would be accepted with enthusiasm, little short of a riot.

The following is a list of the newly elected officers of the Association: William C. Gloth, president, Alexandria county; Eugene B. Taylor, first vice president, Alexandria; H. Thornton Davies, second vice president, Prince William county; F. D. Richardson, third vice president, Fairfax county; Claude O. Thomas, fourth vice president, Alexandria county, were named as the executive committee. Richard B. Washington, treasurer, Alexandria.

Leo P. Harlow, Alexandria, C. Vernon Ford, Fairfax, Charles T. Jesse, Alexandria county, and Robert A. Hutchinson, Prince William county; Louis N. Duffey, secretary.

Leo P. Harlow, R. A. Hutchinson and C. Vernon Ford were appointed as committee to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of deceased members who have passed away during the year.

GRIPPED BY BLIZZARD

Minneapolis and St. Paul Report Snowfall of Seventeen Inches — Traffic Tied Up at Many Points.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 22.—A blizzard, breaking records for forty years, holds the Northwest in its grip today. Minneapolis and St. Paul reported the heaviest fall of snow with seventeen inches.

Train and street car traffic was paralyzed. The majority of trains scheduled out of St. Paul were held up Sunday.

A milk shortage was predicted today by creamery men of the Twin Cities. They said farmers throughout the surrounding country on whom they depend for their milk supply have notified them that it will be impossible to ship for several days.

Red Wing, Minn., seems to have been the hardest hit of the Northwest cities by the storm. The city iis completely cut off from rail communication with only a limited supply of coal on hand and severe cold weather predicted.

The Chicago Great Western railroad discontinued its trains on the Rochester-Red Wing division at noon Sunday, and schedules on other lines have been suspended.

The storm area covers South Dakota, southern Minnesota, central Minnesota, western Wisconsin, and extends to the Great Lakes.

North Dakota, Montana, and Manitoba report only a small fall of snow, but rapidly lowering temperatures.

The temperature in the Twin Cities at 8 a. m., today registered 15 below. The Minneapolis school board announced there will be no school in that city today.

TEST FOR BEVERAGES

Self-Imposed Charges by Richmond Dealers Dismissed in Police Court.

Following the dismissal Saturday morning in the Richmond Police Court of self-imposed charges against E. L. French and W. C. Herbert, of selling Tanhauser and Alpha, outlawed by authority of the prohibition act as malt beverages, Commissioner of Prohibition Peters, who declined to enter into the prosecution, announced that he would at the proper time institute proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction looking to a final test of the beverages' status under the law.

The commissioner, who came in for acrid criticism at the hands of H. M. Smith, jr., counsel for the two men who had themselves arrested for the purpose of making a test case, expressed the opinion that the best interests of the Commonwealth cannot be subserved by allowing counsel for defendants to make the choice of time, circumstances, defendant and jurisdiction. Mr. Peters said, further, that when venders of these beverages were tried in any way which involved his office, he would be the judge of the manner in which the proceedings should be instituted, of the cases which are presented, of the time at which the proceedings shall begin, and of the jurisdiction in which the matter shall be tested.

Commonwealth's Attorney George E. Wise, who was taunted by Mr. Smith with having a "guardian" in the person of the Commissioner of Prohibition and with having "no control over his office," save at the dictation of his new guardian, moved the court to dismiss the warrants, taking practically the same stand taken by Mr. Peters, that the Police Court is no place for a test case, and that the Commonwealth should take the initiative in such proceedings.

GREELEY IN ALEXANDRIA.

A Richmond paper which often publishes extracts from its files of fifty years ago today contained the following:

"Horace Greeley lectured in Alexandria last Friday night to a full house. It is the first time Mr. Greeley has ever spoken in Virginia".

The famous journalist delivered his lecture in what was then known as the Methodist Episcopal Church upon the site of the present Trinity M. E. Church. He entered through the south door and proceeded to one of the stoves which heated the building, where he stopped, looked around and smiled at his Southern audience, composed in the main of republicans. He wore the traditional white overcoat. The church was full, but not to overflowing. After a few minutes he proceeded with those escorting him to the front of the pulpit, where he got out of his white outside coat and appeared in a suit of broadcloth. From a distance he was suggestive of the late Reuben Johnston as the small hirsute adornments he wore were on the neck.

Greeley was introduced we believe by Josiah Millard, with the words, "Gentlemen and ladies:" I introduce to you Hon. Horace Greeley of New York, our friend and the friend of everybody else."

Greeley took for his theme "Self-made Men,' and spoke about an hour. He reappeared in Alexandria in 1871 and delivered another address in the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was in Alexandria during most of the day, and rode through several of our streets in an open hack, accompanied by several Alexandrians who were of his political persuasion. Greeley was the candidate of the democratic party for President of the United States the following year against U. S. Grant, the republican candidate, who was running for a second term. Greeley was badly beaten. Virginia on that occasion repudiated the famous abolitionist and cast its electoral vote for Grant.

Greeley made a tour of the country in 1871 during which he made many friends. It was, however, an inopportune time for him to appear in the south. Her people had recently returned home from the war. They had been confronted by blackened chimneys and general desolation on what had before been smiling and prosperous estates. Their negroes had been manumitted, in accordance with the life long preaching of Greeley, and the people, or the mass of them could not look upon him except with contempt.

While in Alexandria he consorted exclusively with northern men who were living here at the time and those natives who opposed secession in 1860.

Dark days were before the great journalist after his second visit to Alexandria. He was doomed to defeat in th Presidential election from the first. At this time his wife, who had followed his fortunes from the time her husband entered manhood, was about to pay the debt of nature. Greele ywatched by her side and received bulletins concerning the result of the election at the same time. After following the partner of his life to the tomb the weight of years, toils, disappointment, and sorrows, were too much for the man who had the reputation of being the hardest-worked man in the United States. He gave way physically and mentally and closed his eyes in death in a sanitarium, shortly after the campaign of 1872. His remains were deposited in a coffin, which was put upon a hearse and headed for New York in a blinding snow storm.

VIRGINIA'S CLAIM ON WEST VIRGINIA.

As will be seen by an article elsewhere, West Virginia is still loth to pay the $13,000,000 which she has owed Virginia during the past half a century. This issue was threshed over from time to time during all these years until a short time ago when the Supreme Court of the United States decided that the Parent state was due this amount from its offspring.

The matter comprised a large part of Governor Hatfield's message to the General Assembly of West Virginia last week. While the Governor balks at the suggestion of repudiaton advocated by a member of the General Assembly of that state, he favors reopening the case which would delay payment indefinitely.

A Richmond cotemporary in speaking of the latest phase in this vexatious matter says:

So far as Governor Hatfield's message has a meaning which the ordinary mind can grasp, it is that the old methods of postponement and delay should be tried again. Another effort should be made, he says, to induce the Supreme Court to grant a rehearing, and at this rehearing—if it were allowed—arguments which have been threshed out a score of times would be threshed out once again.

The Governor thinks West Virginians will be willing to assume "any equitable or reasonable amount that their ability to pay will permit, for the sake of the Constitution under which we live." That sounds well, but the United States Supreme Court already has decided what is equitable and reasonable, and incorporated that finding in a formal judgment. West Virginia owes Virginia now over $13,000,000, including interest; there is no room for further argument.

It would be absurd to believe, as some folks in West Virginia appear to believe, that the Supreme Court is without authority to enforce its judgments. The Legislature now in session should have an opportunity to reverse the advice of the Governor and take some appropriate means to discharge the State's indebtedness, but should the Legislature fail to act, Virginia's duty will be clear.

Attorney-General Pollard already has applied to the Supreme Court for a writ of execution, and the court delayed the issuance of this writ only to await the convening of the Legislature. This writ would direct the marshal to levy on West Virginia's property to satisfy the decree. It is about time that this saisfaction was obtained.

CHINESE NEW YEAR'S DAY.

Today is being observed in the celestial empire and by natives of that country in the United States and elsewhere as Chinese New Year's Day.

This reminds us of an incident in Alexandria when the late John B. Smoot was Mayor 1885-1887 and when that official was also ex officio Police Justice. Early on the morning of January 22 an ear-splitting report startled people who were at the time on Royal street, between King and Cameron, and a Chinese laundryman was seen making his way from the centre of the thoroughfare to his home on the north side of the street. He was manifesting considerable glee. The terrible report had awakened everybody within several squares, and policemen who were nearby ran after the Mongolian. They caught him and took him to the station house upon the charge of disorderly conduct, or for causing an explosion in the public street. At nine o'clock the Chinaman was brought before Mayor Smoot and after the officers had testified his honor asked the defendant what he had to say. The latter was by no means a master of English, but the Mayor managed to understand that it was Chinese New Year's Day and celestials, no matter where they might be, were compelled to make a noise of some nature; hence the almond-eyed laundryman had carried out the law of his land. Mayor Smoot, who was fond of pleasantry, eyed the accused fiercely and finally said: "Your New Year is too close to our honored Ground Hog today. You must change your day to some other in the calendar. You can go this time."

WOMEN WILL PARADE

Five Hundred From Virginia Asked to Ride in Inangural Procession.

Five hundred Virginia horse-women, radiant in red velvet coats, blue skirts and white beavers, are to be a striking feature of the inaugural parade, according to a plan being developed by Mrs. James H. Boggs, chairman of the woman's division of the inaugural committee.

Mrs. Boggs is a Virginian and spends much time at her home in King George county. Assisting her are Miss Mary Lord Andrews, whose Washington home is 1232 16th street but whose Virginia home is Vanclaux, near Alexandria, and Mrs. Allen Potts, of Richmond. All of these ladies are intimately in touch with that phase of Virginia country life which survives from a glorious past, and which it is intended shall be represented in the inaugural parade as a link between the past and the present.

The word has gone out through Virginia, and already thoroughbreds are being groomed for the demonstration by which the horse-women of Virginia purpose honoring a Virginia President, recently wed to a Virginia woman, on the occasion of his second inauguration. Mrs. Boggs has her headquarters at the corner of Pennsylvania avenue and 15th street, in the Hotel Oxford, where she has fitted up a suit of rooms on the ground floor.

The executive board of the woman's division of the inaugural committee is as follows: Chairman, Mrs. James H. Boggs; vice chairman, Mrs. Wesley M. Stoner; Mrs. Joseph Ransdell, Mrs. Mary C. Bryan and Mrs. Mary Ford Adams; publicity, Mrs. Anna Boothe Stratton; secretary, Mrs. Kate Abraham; treasurer, Miss Nora B. Hoffman; auditor, Mrs. H. E. C. Bryant; sergeant-at- arms, Mrs. Alfred H. Marsh; registrar, Miss Velma Hitchcock; historian, Mrs. Lucy Harris.

The advisory board of women is as follows: Mrs. Robert W. Whooley, Mrs. Frank Clark, Mrs. John F. Costello, Mrs. John T. Goolrich, Mrs. Charles D. Carter, Mrs. Carter Glass, Mrs. Clara A. Never Before Have the Sunday-Closing Laws Been So Rigidly Enforced by Police.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 22.—Grocery stores, cigar and tobacco shops and saloons were closed here yesterday following orders issued by police officials for a rigid enforcement of the State Sunday-closing laws. Markets, green grocery and butcher shops, as well as drug stores and soft drink stands, were allowed to remain open. Ten alleged violators of the laws were arrested and released on bond.

According to the police department heads, closing orders covered all requirements of the State laws. Never before, said the police officials, have the Sunday-losing laws been so rigidly enforced here.

Announcement was made yesterday that a second mass-meeting would be held under the auspices of the Citizens' League of Louisiana on next Tuesday night, at which time Sunday-closing laws would be discussed and further reports on vice conditions in the city submitted by special investigators.

The Second Virginia Regiment has been ordered home from the Texan border.

The Richmond Blues and Howitzers are to remain on border.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT

Captain Conrad Johnson, of Alexandria City, Favored for Position.

The appointment of a superintendent of schools for Alexandria county is expected when the State Board of Education meets in Richmond tomorrow. A meeting of teachers and patrons at Clarendon during the holidays made a request that action be taken at once. In any case the appointment must be made in March.

Candidates already mentioned are Prof. Kemp, Falls Church; Rev. Dr. Kirby, Ballston; Rev. Mr. Swain, Clarendon; and Prof. Shreve, Ballston. In addition to these now are Capt. Conrad Johnson of Alexandria, who has been on the Texas border with the Virginia troops as captain of the Alexandria Company. The Commonwealth in referring to Captain Johnson says he is a son of John M. Johnson, one of the best known and most respected members of the Alexandria bar, and he was for ten years before going to Texas principal of the Alexandria High School. He has just returned from the border and is regarded by many as most likely to be named. He is a graduate of Virginia Military Institute.

Prof. Duffy is assistant principal of the Winchester High School. He is a graduate of Harvard and has been at Winchester for 5 or 6 years.

Prof. St. Clair, principal of the Hampton High School. He is a graduate of Virginia Military Institute and has been in the Hampton school some twelve or fourteen years He began life as a civil engineer.

Prof. James H. Rollins, Del Ray, who was principal of the high school there. He was several years a student at George Washington and at Richmond College.

TO BOOST COUNTY.

A new movement has been initiated for the establishment of a chamber of commerce in Alexandria County. Following a preliminary meeting at the Court House Monday a second meeting was held in Rosslyn Thursday at which it was determined to boost the project by a banquet, to which a hundred or more prominent residents of the county will be invited. A committee to carry out this plan was formed with E. C. MacPherson of Cherrydale as chairman and including George H. Rucker, John Smithdeal, F. Koester, Claude Thomas and Frank L. Ball. This committee will meet at Koester's Monday to determine time and place for the banquet. It will be held in Alexandria County if possible and in the near future.

VIRGINIA NEWS

The stockholders of the Eastern Shore of Virginia Produce Exchange, at their eighteenth annual meeting at Onley, re-elected all officers. Last year was the banner year of the exchange, the total gross sales being nearly $7,000,000. Nearly 2,000,000 barrels of Irish potatoes and 1,000,000 barrels of sweet potatoes were marketed. Besides potatoes, the exchange handled onions, cabbage and berries. The net earnings last year were $113,043, and nearly $57,000 will be divided among the farmers.

Captain Mitchell and 31 men of the British steamer Cabotia, sent down on October 20 by a German submarine, perished on the night the ship was torpedoed, according to T. W. Edgar, who was chief officer on the Cabotia. Edgar is at Newport News, on the British steamer Kelvinbrae. He says that the crew left the Cabotia in four boats, one of which was commanded by the captain. Two of the boats were picked up the following morning, but nothing ever was heard from the other two.

Four men were killed outright and one fatally injured at 7:30 o'clock, yesterday morning when a Michigan Central eastbound train struck an automobile 7 miles east of Jackson, Mich. On account of a blinding snowstorm the driver of the car did not see the approaching train.

Seven police officers, headed by Chief of Police Bell, last Saturday night conducted one of the most fruitful raids attempted in Danville in recent months. They caught, 14 men gambling in the third story of a building and confiscated more than 1,000 empty beer and whisky bottles. A large suit case held poker chips taken from the gambling table. Twenty-three bottles of beer and whisky were found in a closet and in the gambling room were half-filled whisky bottles. The fourteen men were released after leaving collateral for their appearance in the Police Court. The gambling room was something of a novelty. In the gambling attic another room had been constructed of sound-proof material. In one corner was an electric bell attached by wires to a hinged step on the flight leading up from the street. Pressure on the step sounded the alarm, and there was an emergency exit leading to another flight of steps.

Opening exercises of District Grand Lodge, No. 5, Independent Order of B'nai B'rith, were held last night at Temple Beth Ahabah, Richmond, beginning at 8:30 p. m. Harold S. Bloomberg, chairman of the arrangements committee, conducted the exercises, and presented Rabbi Rosenthal who offered the opening prayer. The address of welcome was delivered by Charles Hutzler, president of Rimmon Lodge, to the visiting delegates.

SUNDAY GIVEN $50,000.

Boston Meeting Ends With 60,510 Trail-Hitters—Expenses of Revival $90,136.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 22.—Billy Sunday closed his ten weeks' Boston revival yesterday by preaching to 70,000 persons in four services at the $50,000 tabernacle erected for his campaign. With a check for approximately $50,000, representing free will offerings made by his audiences, through the mail the last week or in the collection pans at yesterday's services, he left last night for Lawrenceville, N. J., to visit a grandson at school.

Boston's cash gift to Mr. Sunday bring the total of free-will offerings that he has received since beginning his evangelistic work up to approximately $600,000. Collections for expenses totaled $90,136.75 in Boston.

The local revival broke all records in the career of the baseball evangelist. He preached here to 1,337,000 persons at services in the tabernacle and his audiences at outside meetings were at least 10,000 more. At the tabernacle 60,510 replied to the evangelist's appeal to "hit the sawdust trail."

The trailhitters included Catholics, Jews and Christian Scientists and cards were accepted by all these denominations. Cardinal O'Connell's official publication had warned Catholics that it would be a sin to hear Sunday, but the Cardinal's secretary sent the evangelist a letter thanking him and expressing goodwill.

RAIDERS FLY U. S. FLAG.

Supposed German Vessels Sighted Bearing Stars And Stripes.

Rio Janeiro, Jan. 22.—The Minister of Marine has received a telegram from the captain of the port of Pernambuco confirming the previously reported declaration of the commander of the Brazilian steamer Maranhao that he had encountered two cargo vessels, accompanied by two auxiliary ships, believed to be Germans, all flying the American flag.

The Brazilian government, in addition to sending out the coast defense ship Deodoro has decided to dispatch the scout cruiser Rio Grande du Sul, which will cruise between Port Natal and Fernando de Noronha Island and keep close watch on the coast in these waters. The two vessels will leave for the North Tuesday.

The Rio Janeiro newspaper A Noticia says that about 100 sailors from the German gunboat Eber, interned at Bahia, are reported to have embarked in the Swedish steamer St. Croix, which left Rio Janeiro four days ago and is said to have met the German raider on the high seas for the purpose of putting these men aboard. These sailors had been interned on Cobras Island, in the Bay of Rio Janeiro, for more than a year.

A representative of this newspaper inspected the German steamer Hohenstaufen in Rio Janeiro harbor and declares that the vessel was taking on provisions and water and had steam up. The Hohenstaufen and another German steamer, the Caproca, according to A Noticia, have made preparations to put to sea.

Reports have been received here that manifestations in favor of the Germans took place on board the Spanish steamer Leo XIII when the work of the raider became known. A number of the passengers aboard protested.

The British steamer Vauban, which sailed from New York January 7, has arrived safely at Bahia.

WOULD SHUT BRITAIN IN.

Germany Planing to Incircle Islands With U-Boats.

New York, Jan. 22.—Germany will declare a deep-sea barrier around the British Isles on February 1.

This news come alike from British and Baltic sources. American travelers returning fresh from Germany on the Bergensfjord from Bergen and from British ports today brought the same news. The barrier will be patrolled by 30 latest-type submarines, all of which have been launched during the past two months, and have a 6,000 mile cruising radius.

A note will be sent by the Central Powers to all neutral nations warning them of the danger zone, similar to the note sent on February 18, 1915, to which President Wilson replied that the Central Powers would be held to strict accountability for all American lives placed in jeopardy.

This newest "danger zone" is the North Channel, which separates Ireland and Storland; St. George's Channel between England and Ireland, and the entrance to the English Channel. All allied vessels whether carrying contraband or not will be stopped, their crews ordered to take to the ship boats and the vessel immediately sunk.

The submarines which will patrol this newest zone have a speed of 18 knots on the surface and 12 knots submerged, it was said by Americans who asserted that they had the highest German authority for their statements. Each submarine will operate in a 10-mile radius, and will be held responsible for any allied merchant vessel which slips past into an allied port.

These submarines are equipped with six torpedoes, two rapid-fire guns mounted fore and aft, bomb-laying chambers, a large supply of bombs, mines and grenades. They wiill carry sufficient provisions to last five weeks without revictualing.

In the case of neutral vessels passing through the war zone, their cargoes will be examined as previously, and if they are carrying contraband, they, too, will be sunk, their crews first having taken to the lifeboats.

Another reason for declaring this "barrier" is that German submarines can sink any allied merchantman without search, claiming that the vessel was to all intents and purposes an armed cruiser, as allied vessels are now mounting six-inch guns on steel concealed turrets.

403 STEEL VESSELS BUILDING

American Shipyards Busier Than They Have Ever Been.

The largest tonnage of steel merchant vessels in the history of American shipbuilding was under construction or contracted for in private shipyards, on January 1. The Department of Commerce announces that in all there are 403 vessels aggregating 1,495,601 gross tons. They include a number for foreign account.

In December American yards finished nine steel merchant vessels aggregating 24,363 gross tons, and made contracts for 29 vessels of 105,120 gross tons.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Losing his fight for life against a broken back, compround fracture of the legs, arms and almost every bone in his body, James C. Lewis, 23 years old, carpenter, died at Mercy Hospital in Baltimore last night. Lewis was engaged at work on the top of the framework at the Pimlico Park, while a few other workmen were a few feet below him. In reaching downward for his hammer he lost his balance, toppled forward and then plunged headfirst to the ground. The body revolved several times during the fall and struck the ground within a few feet of the bottom of the tower.

Four persons are dead and another is dying as the result of a collision between an automobile and a special freight train on a grade crossing at Clinton, Mass., yesterday.

The Italian newspaper Secolo is quoted in Berlin as reporting from Athens that the British government plans to requisition the entire Greek merchant fleet. The Greek government, said to be greatly wrought up over this subject, has asked a sufficient numbe ro fships be left at its disposal.

Throughout Sunday thousands of persons flocked to East London, hoping to satisfy their curiosity as to the effect of Friday's explosion in the munition factory there. None of them, however, was able to obtain a near view of the scene, owing to rigid police regulations, and could only wander through the outlying streets, where most of the windows were shattered by the concussion. The newspaper reporters, who were allowed to approach nearer the scene, describe what was formerly the site of the explosive store as a hole 100 yards across and 80 feet deep, with masses of earth, iron and all sorts of wreckage covering an area of about 6 acres around the hole. Within that area the destruction was absolute.

Harry Terry, formerly of Cincinnati, Saturday night shot and killed his wife, Mrs. Lillian Black Terry, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Victoria Black, and fatally wounded his wife's cousin, Mrs. L. M. Spurlock in Huntington, W. Va. Terry was arrested and, according to the police, declared he shot the members of his family because the mother and cousin were responsible for a suit for divorce filed by his wife.

The Fifth Maryland Regiment, the last of the State's militia organizations on the Mexican border, has been ordered home.

The preparations being made for the "Billy" Sunday revival meetings to start in New York in the "tabernacle" to be constructed for the purpose, beginning on April 1 and continuing three months, are said to include prayer meetings in the offices of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who is a member of the finance committee of the revival as well as the organization of 3,500 ushers to seat the great crowds expected to attend his services. This body of men will have a military form of organization. A squad of New York policemen will be detailed on duty at the tabernacle.

The Rev. "Billy" Sunday ended his Boston campaign of ten weeks last night. Up to a week ago when taking collections was suspended, the offerings amounted to $90,448.76, none of which goes to the evangelist. More than 58,288 persons "hit the trail."

The New York Herald prints from Pernambuco: "The Prussian commerce raider believed to be the Vineta, which has wrought havoc with alied shipping in the last few weeks in the south Atlantic, particularly off the Brazilian coast, has been sunk by the British cruiser, Glasgow, according to a generally accepted report received here. Although the report is not officially confirmed yet, previous reports of the raider's position caused the unofficial news to be looked upon as authentic."

Battery B, District of Columbia militia, and the Fifth regiment, of Maryland, are included in the 25,243 natonal guardsmen now on the Mexican border that have designated by Major General Funston for return home and muster out of the Federal service, under the order issued Saturday by the War Department.

TWO MILLION SWINDLE.

Arrest in Paris Causes Startling Developments.

Paris, Jan. 22.—An alleged swindle, estimated by different newspapers as high as $2,000,000, was disclosed Saturday in the arrest of Philippe Simeoni, of Italian origin, and Prince Henri de Broglie-Revel. M. Simeoni was accused in 1912 of swindling the German Prince Friedrich Carl Zu Hohenlohe-Oehringen out of 500,000 francs. The case was settled out of court, but Simeoni was sentenced to six months imprisonment for fraudulent bankruptcy. Afterward he founded the Comptoir des Valeurs Industrielle, which was a stock-brokiing bank. Prince Henri de Broglie-Revel was placed at the head of the institution as its president; Simeoni taking the title of manager.

At the outbreak of the war customers of the bank demanded their money. Simeoni pleaded the moratorium and put the bank into liquidation, provoking many complaints, one of which alone alleged a claim of 1,600,000 francs. The police report that not a sou remained in the bank when they searched it, and that only a few hundred francs in notes were found in the possession of Simeoni at his home.

PAPERS DOUBLE PRICE.

Philadelphia, Jan. 22.—Philadelphia newspapers now selling at one cent will increase their price to two cents, beginning January 29.

The high cost of news print paper and other materials entering into the making of a newspaper is given as the cause for the increase.

Washington, Jan. 22.—A final report to Congress on the news print paper investigation virtually was completed Friday by the Federal Trade Commission, and will be prepared tomorrow for submission.

The commission already has turned over to the Department of Justice for use in possible prosecutions much of the information gathered.

UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES.

Bureau of Extension at Virginia Institution Broadens Scope.

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 22.—This year will see a broadening of the activities of the Bureau of Extension at the University of Virginia in its service to the state. Two night schools are now in operation regularly, one at Simeon and the other at Ridgeview, in the mountain districts four miles from the University. Individual instruction is given three nights a week by volunteer students teachers. All the elementary branches are taught in addition to courses in business and agriculture, and the schools are meeting with much favor in these particular communities.

Co-operating with the Extension Bureau, the State Board of Health has loaned a stereopticon machine and slides that deal with the prevention of pneumonia, typhoid fever, and tuberculosis. The International Harvester Company, Chicago, has furnished slides on agriculture. These show methods of growing alfalfa, the enrichment of soils, running a model dairy and home economics. Demonstrations are being given in a number of localities.

In co-operation with the Medical Department, the Y. M. C. A. has opened a free Dispensary in the Ragged Mountains. Fourth year medical students travel 26 miles every Saturday to hold a clinic and aid the sick. A full-time, graduate nurse has been employed in the work for four months. Money for the Dispensary is raised by subscription from sudents, faculty and alumni. Serious cases are brought into the University Hospital.

Another phase of the extension work is that speakers are sent to high and preparatory schools throughout the state to give talks on clean sports, literary societies, and the University's honor system. A Gospel team has been sent to Clifton Forge, Gordonsville, Farmville, and other cities of the state to conduct evangelistic and religious campaigns. These have been very successful and warmly commended. Students are taking an active part in the church work and young peoples' societies in the city. They have established a Sunday School at Fry's Spring, Albemarle county, which has 50 pupils.

Regular extension lectures, given by members of the University faculty, are available to any community in the state, upon application to Prof. Charles G. Maphis, director of Extension Bureau, University, Va. These lecturers are both popular and technical. They can be supplied for study clubs, institutes, farmers' meetings, commencements, patriotic occasions, and conventions.

ABANDONED AT SEA.

Crew of the Steamer Portland Arrives as Passengers on Norwegian Vessel.

New York, Jan. 22.—The story of their abandoning at sea of the American steamship Portland, December 23, was told here yesterday, by Captain Rees and his crew of twenty-five men, who arrived as passengers on the Norweigan steamship Bergensfjord from Scandinavian ports.

The Portland, an oil burner, left Havre, France, on November 20,, for New York. When 200 miles east of Nantucket she ran into northwest gales. On December 7, while battling heavy seas, the fuel tank began to leak and all the oil was lost. In order to keep the engines working, the crew burned everything made of wood. The hatches were consumed, and seas poured into the vessel.

The heavy winds blew the ship south of Bermuda, where the Italian steamship Umbria tried to aid. She stood by for two days before a line was attached to the Portland on December 16. At night, the line parted. The Umbria stood by a while longer, but weather conditions made it impossible to give assistance, and the Italian vessel drifted from sight in the darkness.

The Portland was tossed about until December 23, when the Norweigan steamship Brazil, bound from San Francisco to Kristiania, sighted her and took off the crew. The captain and his men were landed at Kirkwall and boarded the Bergensfjord when that vessel put in there.

UNDERGROUND WIRELESS.

The same electric power employed in the ringing of a doorbell has transmitted sound through space a distance of 40 miles. In an experiment conducted by Dr. H. Barringer Cox, the ringing of an ordinary clock at Los Olivos just outside faintly recorded at his station just outside Santa Barbara Cal.

According to Dr. Cox the instruments were not "pointing" right, and after certain corrections have been made at Los Olivos the experiments will be renewed. But the results are highly satisfactory. It is wireless, without the use of wires, and the power used is the ordinary dry battery which Dr. Cox invented years ago.

Instead of passing through the air the sound travels through the ground. His station in Santa Barbara shows but two metal standards about 15 feet high and 200 feet apart. The principle involved is still Dr. Cox's secret, but he claims that when it has been perfected the economy of wireless will have been solved for both telegraph and telephone.
